New Life After Death Research Project from AfterlifeData

People around the world to participate in the largest afterlife research project ever undertaken

July 18, 2014 – BRANSON, MO – AfterlifeData.com, the largest database of afterlife description and analysis on the Internet, is expanding with a new project called Voices Across The Veil™ (www.VoicesAcrossTheVeil.com). The project expands upon the research already presented on AfterlifeData.com in a new and exciting way - by providing on-line, small-group sessions with world-class mediums. These exceptional mediums have made time in their very busy schedules to participate in this research at rates that are approachable to nearly anyone.

The results of the ongoing Voices Across The Veil program will also be compared with historical writings as well as aggregated for inclusion on AfterlifeData.com. In addition, we will be presenting the research results as papers, in scientific journals and at conferences focused upon Life After Death.

“This project is so exciting. Every medium we have talked to, even if they can’t participate right away, has acknowledged the importance of the program and commented about what a great service it will be to everyone,” said Michelle Szabo, one of the creators. “This is an opportunity for people to seek answers to many of the questions we all have about life and death. It is also an opportunity for people to expand their consciousness into realms that they may not have considered before.”

Dr. Dennis Grega, another creator stated, “The most important part of this research will be that people worldwide will be able to directly experience evidential communication from loved ones. Participants will be able to gather their own “data” to confirm the reality of the afterlife on a personal, qualitative basis. The small intimate group sessions provide a higher probability of obtaining direct personal communication than would be found in large theater type venues.”

Voices Across The Veil was created to fill two primary goals. Many people from around the world have requested mediums through AfterlifeData.com and we wanted to expand our research with 21st Century data using mediums. On a voluntary basis, we are asking that participants fill out pre- and post-session questionnaires, which will be used for data analysis and aggregation. This is the first time that small group mediumistic sessions are being held over the Internet for the purpose of scientific study.

QUIXOTIC VISION LLC creates programs to look within, expand consciousness, and live wholly. We gather information and report it back so that people from all walks of life may benefit.
